Accountant and Salesman

With hands-on experience in both sales and accounting, I have developed a versatile skill set that blends customer service, inventory management, and financial operations. As a Salesman at Ambica Footwear, I gained valuable experience in customer interactions, sales strategies, and product promotion, helping to drive sales and improve customer satisfaction. In addition, I worked as an Accountant at my father's shop, where I was responsible for maintaining financial records, handling daily transactions, and preparing reports. This role enhanced my proficiency in accounting software, invoicing, and budgeting, allowing me to gain a practical understanding of financial management in a small business setting. My combined experience in these roles has honed my ability to manage multiple tasks efficiently, ensuring smooth operations and business growth.
